Case study Barratt Homes - Ocean

“The panels provide the high-end luxury that our customers demand, says Mike Cowie, Sales and Marketing Director at Barratt Homes. “With Spapanel, we are able to achieve the authentic look of real marble or stone, creating the opulence redolent of a boutique hotel or spa, and this really appeals to today’s house buyers.

“Our own joiners find the panels quick and straightforward to install, and homeowners like the fact that they are really easy to clean.”

Another of Barratt Homes’ prestigious developments, Westburn Gardens, in the city’s Riverside Quarter, will also feature Spapanel waterproof wall panels in its two and three bedroom properties.

“As with all our developments, we choose the best quality products for our fit-outs. The panels represent good value, and Spapanel’s 15-year guarantee provides us with even greater confidence in the quality and durability of their product.”

Barratt Homes, the UK’s biggest house builder is nearing completion of Ocean, a fantastic development of 174 one and two bedroom executive apartments in Aberdeen. The appropriately named development is just a stone’s throw from the seafront and within walking distance of the city’s amenities and attractions. Many buyers have already moved into their new homes, with work on the remaining units expected to complete by the end of 2018.

Waterproof wall panels, manufactured in the UK by Spapanel, have been installed in the shower rooms of the development’s luxury apartments.
